Conservation
Trust

We work to encourage and support landholders to conserve and manage biodiversity on private land in NSW

Over seventy per cent of land in NSW is privately owned and managed. The Biodiversity Conservation Trust helps landholders to better manage biodiversity on this land. Local staff work in partnership with landholders across NSW.

The Biodiversity Conservation Trust will invest $240 million in the period to June 2021 to support landholders who wish to participate in private land conservation. From July 2021 the government has committed $70 million per annum to maintain this crucial investment in the environment in NSW.

Landholders who enter voluntary agreements to conserve and manage biodiversity on their land can access a range of funding programs that will:

- diversify their income streams
- enhance productivity
- promote sustainable landscapes.

By prioritising and protecting areas with critical habitat and ecosystems, the Biodiversity Conservation Trust aims to deliver a healthy, productive and resilient environment across NSW.
